Answers to Your Questions

How does the new certificate impact currently employed speech language pathologists?

It has no impact. Instructional certificate holders do NOT need the new certificate and may not apply.

Does a PA Department of State license holder or ASHA CCC holder need to obtain the license to work in schools?

Yes, they must obtain the Instructional or Educational Specialist certificate.

Answers to Your Questions

Must Educational Specialist Speech Language Pathologists complete an induction?

Yes.

Must Educational Specialist Speech Language Pathologists earn Act 48 hours?

Yes. We suggest that the PA and ASHA licensed educators work with their organization to obtain ACT 48 approval for their continuing education to reduce the burden.

How should we evaluate the Speech Language Pathologists?

Speech Language Pathologists performing auxiliary (“pull-out,” “push-in,” “co-teacher”) services may be evaluated using the 82-3 rubric regardless of certificate type. A rubric specifically designed for SLP educators is under consideration.

Answers to Your Questions

What are the requirements for a person who supervises an Education Specialist in SLP?

Letter of Eligibility certificate holders, Administrative (Principal) holders, Supervisors of Pupil Personnel and Supervisors of Speech Language Impaired holders may supervise. We will update the CSPGs.

What are the requirements to obtain the Educational Specialist certificate for Speech Language Pathologist for PA State Licensed or ASHA CCC certified applicants?

Applicants must apply on-line using the Teacher Information Management System, TIMS. They must supply their official transcripts, a copy of their license, program information, verification of internship with school-aged children, meet good moral character and citizenship requirements. Tests are only required for those not holding the PA or ASHA license.

Answers to Your Questions

How is the field experience with school-aged children documented if a PDE 430 was not completed in the clinical program?

Applicants may upload a completed PDE 338 A if they attended an out-of-state college or PDE 338 C if they attended a Pennsylvania clinical program before it was approved as an Educational Specialist program provider.

Certifying officers should indicate that the student worked with school-aged children in a clinical or school setting in the comments.
